

Jennifer Browning Holmes

Founder & President, Integrating Woman Leaders, Inc.

Jennifer Browning Holmes spent 27 years in corporate America holding management, director and executive level C-suite positions for several major healthcare companies including; Boston Scientific, Guidant Corporation, Heartport, EKOS and Spectranetics before founding her management consulting firm, Integrating Woman Leaders, Inc. In September, 2012 she joined MedAssets, an industry leader in healthcare technology and consulting services, as Senior Vice President, Advisory Solutions.

In early 2010 Jennifer founded, Integrating Woman Leaders, Inc. (IWL) a WBE, Certified Women Business Enterprise. Today, IWL is a respected management consulting firm dedicated to the advancement of women in the workplace. IWL focus is on leadership, communication and skill development for women. The company works to ensure corporate inclusion and diversity efforts are aligned with their women's initiatives. IWL assists companies who are interested in launching and implementing corporate women's initiatives tied to leadership development training programs. The company has been successful in coaching and developing individuals through their highly trained, certified and skilled executive coaches. Through her passion to mentor women Jennifer created the first Annual Women's Leadership Conference in the state of Indiana.

Jennifer currently holds a position as Faculty Partner, at Butler University's College of Business, Corporate & Executive Education (BCEE). In collaboration with BCEE, IWL offers customized training as well as public leadership development programs. Each program focuses on key areas of leadership, which were identified from the past four years of research and feedback from clients and attendees of the annual IWL Women's Leadership Conference.

Jennifer recently served as Vice President, Board of Directors, Domestic Violence Network (DVN) and serves on the Board for the Juvenile Diabetes Research Foundation (JDRF). She volunteers her time mentoring women through her membership with the Healthcare Women Business Associations (HBA), having served as one of the 2012 Indiana Chapter Mentors. She is a member of Mentoring Women's Network, a past member of the National Association Women Business Owners (NAWBO) and was recently invited to become a member of the Global Institute for Women in Leadership.

Jennifer is a graduate of Indiana University, Bloomington, with a BS in Science. She is a wife and mother of three beautiful daughters and the stepmother of three.
