Integrating Woman Leaders, Inc. Sold Out Its Fifth Annual Women's Leadership Conference
Integrating Woman Leaders inspires 550 men and women

INDIANAPOLIS (August, 28 2014) – Yesterday, Integrating Woman Leaders, Inc. (IWL), a leader in professional development for women, hosted its sold out Women's Leadership Conference themed Brand You: Passion, Purpose, and The Will to Lead at the Indianapolis Marriot East. The conference influenced and inspired over 500 attendees with keynote speakers and breakout sessions geared to fit individual career needs.

“We are so happy with how the day went,” says Jennifer Browning Holmes, Founder and President of IWL. “We had incredible speakers who really energized the audience and an audience who was engaging and ready to learn. We could not have asked for a better day.”

IWL's annual Women's Leadership Conference encourages individuals to take their careers into their own hands. This year the event was designed to help attendees enhance professional leadership skills, improve communication and build stronger networks to achieve results. With moving speeches from Jennifer Wolfgram, local expert in executive leadership, Karen Hough, an innovative entrepreneur and bestselling author of “Improvisation Edge: Secrets to Building Trust and Radical Collaboration at Work”, and Gloria Feldt, president of Take the Lead and Vanity Fair's “Top 200 Women Leaders, Legends, and Trailblazers”, attendees left the conference with influential information and inspiration to take back with them to their offices or organizations.

IWL has now reached over 2,600 women across the state of Indiana and including over 120 companies each year since its inception. With the mission to develop individual women into leaders through empowerment, support and connections, IWL continues to be the resource for women to turn to and hopes to continue to grow and influence others.
